

*The chestnut casts his flambeaux, and the flowers
Stream from the hawthorn on the wind away,
The doors clap to, the pane is blind with showers.
Pass me the can lad: There's an end of May.*

Last Poems, IX, A. E. Housman

We request the honor of your presence at the north Texas celebration of

MAYOFF DAY 2007

at eight thirty in the evening on Saturday, the 2nd of June.
1411 Huntington Drive, Richardson, Texas

In 1998 startling research was published documenting how Mayoffs were the first Americans. History buffs can read the tale at www.mayoff.com/mayoffday.html. Lost in the annals of time is the mystery of how these intrepid first Americans, upon reaching Mesoamerica, discovered the aphrodisiac of the gods. It is indisputable, however, that the discovery has been a continuing boon to the growth of humankind. This year we want to pay tribute to those noble early ancestors and to you, our guests, by sharing our ancestors wonderful discovery — chocolate! Of course we'll supply frozen bellinis, punch, soft drinks and other munchies too, ensuring that you will not go hungry or thirsty.

As always, we can promise you an evening of warm camaraderie and interesting conversation amidst an eclectic group of friends. Your presence will make the event complete. As the evening unfolds, after mingling with new friends and old, we invite you to join us in the spa and pool. Many of our friends have found that sharing water promotes friendship and conversation. If you haven't gotten in hot water with us before, try it and see what we mean. Bring a towel if you can, or borrow one from us on the spur of the moment. Suits, of course, are optional.

We would appreciate a call or an e-mail by May 25 letting us know if you will be able to join us in this unique celebration.
